AP and Dual Enrollment Considerations

AP Courses

- Take a test in May to receive credit
- Can take at the high school
- No need to relocate
- No age requirement
- Most universities (in/out state) will accept the credit

- Rigorous
- Rigor points for HOPE/Zell
- Get college credit
- Some universities prefer one over the other

Dual Enrollment

- Attend courses at the institution
- Follows the college/university calendar (not FCS)
- All public university in state will accept the credit
- Not all out of state universities will accept the credit

A Good Dual Enrollment Student is...

Independent

One who can learn and work well on their own

Resourceful

Have the ability to advocate for themselves and find answers

Intelligent & Mature

Has the aptitude to succeed & be able to prioritize their time effectively to meet deadlines

Driven

Self-motivated to succeed

Organized

Must be able to keep up with application and deadlines

Benefits of Dual Enrollment

Pass the class, get high school credit and college credit.

Successful completion of courses earn the same weight as AP and IB courses- 1 additional quality point per course.

Earning college credits while still in high school is financially beneficial and may enable you to graduate HS or college early.

Taking college-level classes while still in high school may build confidence and independence.

Potential Drawbacks to Consider

Out-of-state and private colleges may not accept earned college credits.

Due to FERPA Privacy Laws, colleges cannot talk to parents about grades or attendance. Students must be responsible & motivated.

There are major consequences to failing a Dual Enrollment class and all grades are required to be posted on your transcript.

Students are managing two worlds - high school and college. School breaks do not align; testing schedules may overlap.

The high school has no control over college grading, professor communication, college registration parameters, or college course scheduling.

Additional Considerations

Do you have reliable transportation?

Are you ready to start your college GPA and transcript?

What is your goal with Dual Enrollment?

Number of courses required for scheduling - Seniors must take 4+ classes and Juniors must take 6+ classes

- Dual Enrollment courses should be scheduled for early morning or late afternoon to best coordinate with the high school schedule
- College courses are typically scheduled for M/W/F, T/TH, or virtual
